Forgotten Books, United States, 2016. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Araish-I-Mahfil: Or, the Ornament of the Assembly It is with great diffidence that I present to the public this translation of the first of the three books, viz., the Araish-i-Mahfil, the Nasr-i-be-Nazir, and Selections from the Kuliyat-i-Sauda, which have undertaken to publish. I am, however, induced to do so by the knowledge that the want of these works has long been felt by the students of the Urdu tongue, and I trust that they may be useful guides to the study of that language. I have denoted much time and labour to making them as thorough and careful translations as possible; and as I considered a literal rendering to be the most useful, I have sacrificed elegance of style to this object. The Araish-i-Mahfil commences with a description of India, its seasons, fruits, animals, sciences, religious and military orders, and women; then follows a geographical account of the great divisions of the country, and it concludes with a history of the Hindu kings to the time of its conquest by the Muhammadans. Colonel Nassau Lees, the late Secretary to the Board of Examiners at Fort William, Calcutta, in his preface to the Urdu version, remarks, Parts of it would be well worth translating into English and it is one of the books, mentioned by the late Sir Henry Elliot, as fit for publication. The notes are taken from various sources, or are the results of my own experience, and are principally intended for the Urdu student in England; names of places are spelt as in the Urdu, and words not in the original are within round brackets; in translating the poetry, I have not attempted to turn...
